By exploring physical materials, objects, light and motion, visual abstractions and micro-macro universes are created. SLØR Visual Performance is a vibrant visual dialogue that artistically interprets, embraces and unfolds the atmosphere and artistic universe of the music.

My Lambertsen is the artist behind SLØR Visual Performance. She has a crossover background as a vocalist, songwriter and has composed both music and video for performing arts inspired by music konkrete. She collaborates with a broad range of artists within dance, new-circus, literature and music.

SLØR's expression is created from creative laboratories where the physical materials are examined and their texture, surfaces, flexibility, graphic expression, transparency and colours are transformed into an artistic language. SLØR animates objects real time, placed in the performance space, together with the audience for them to be able to follow the whole creative process from object to visual art on stage.
